

"These kids don't get the opportunity to let go, especially if they are abused or neglected." —Selita

Model citizens

These beauties work the runways and the soup kitchens.

Photography by Ben Watts

HERE: SELITA EBANKS, 22

Hometown: Grand Cayman, Cayman Islands

Charity she supports: Free Arts for Abused Children, freearts.org

Volunteers like Selita bring art programs and other activities to at-risk children, giving them a chance to express themselves in a positive way. "These kids don't get the opportunity to let go, especially if they are abused or neglected," Selita says. "For me, having a direct impact on young lives is important. I sing a song with the kids, 'This Little Light of Mine.' I tell them to sing it when they're sad and alone, and to think of me making a goofy face and making them laugh."

BODY BY VICTORIA tank, $15; DKNY JEANS JUNIORS jeans, $49; PAGE LYS snaffle-bit necklace, $200; GILES AND BROTHER BY PHILIP CRANGI nail-head charm necklace, $90; JUICY COUTURE watch, $450; her own hat.

